

Acknowledgments

The development of any written work is a nontrivial process. This booklet came about because many people were willing to talk, listen, answer questions, read, and be supportive.

It is my privilege to acknowledge the input and support from many people in the development of this booklet. The SAGE community willingly provided input on hiring techniques; those that read draft copies provided enlightening comments on things that had been omitted or overlooked and provided encouraging support that led to the final product. My family and coworkers were understanding during the entire process. In particular, sincere thanks are due to John D. Armstrong, Charles F. Dunn, Paul Evans, Stan Heller, Paul R. Joslin, Rob Kolstad, Kristin M. Kuntz, John S. Quarterman, Peter Salus, John Sechrest, and Pat Wilson for their particular contributions to this adventure. Finally, thank you to Maggie Taylor who worked many hours to help me craft a better booklet.

I hope that this booklet is a tool that is useful for others in the selection of system administrators.
